Debtors' attorney has spent a large amount of time dealing with Debtors' home mortgage. The mortgage holder filed a motion for relief from stay. Debtors at first contended they were current on their post-petition mortgage payments, but it was later determined that they were not. After many failed attempts by Debtors' attorney to persuade the mortgage holder to provide information about the mortgage, Debtors' attorney drafted an agreed order that required the mortgage holder to provide Debtors information regarding their mortgage, leaving the stay in effect until that information was provided. The stay is still in effect. The mortgage holder never provided the information or filed a proof of claim. As a result, the trustee filed a motion to disallow the mortgage holder's claim. The motion requested that the mortgage arrearage be disallowed and that the funds which the Bank of New York Mellon, or Ocwen Loan Servicing, LLC, would have otherwise been paid be released to the other creditors entitled to payment under the Plan. The Court entered an order disallowing the claim on February 11, 2015. The trustee has accumulated $11,972.49 from Debtors' plan payments, which if that claim had not been disallowed, would have been paid to the mortgage holder. With the claim denied, those funds are now available, and Debtors' attorney would like to be compensated for the time that he has spent. At the time that the agreed order was worked out with the mortgage holder, the intent was for Debtors' attorney to request compensation as part of a motion to modify the plan that would be filed to cure the post-petition arrearage (and to correct the pre-petition mortgage arrearage stated in the plan) once the mortgage holder provided the needed information. However, Debtors lost some of their income, and it turned out that they were unable to resume their regular mortgage payments.

Wherefore, Debtors move that the Court enter a text-only order stating, "It is ordered that there is awarded $4,290, comprised of $4,290 in compensation and $0 in expense reimbursement, to Huckabee & Huckabee, Inc., attorney for Debtors, for services and expenses rendered related to this case through the date of this motion in excess of the compensation that he has already received. It is ordered that the confirmed plan is modified to direct that the Trustee pay said amount in a single payment in month 18 of the plan. It is further ordered that the Order Confirming Chapter 13 Plan shall remain in effect except as modified herein."

The services rendered, time expended, and expenses incurred post-petition are set forth in the separate statement filed contemporaneously herewith.
